10:30 a.m. - Noon	Korn Ferry's Approach to Managing Talent, Succession and Compensation	Compass Ballroom	1.8
	Job titles, job levels and compensation are just about as personal as topics one can approach in an organization. They rest at the heart of the employee-employer relationship. So, why would any organization want to touch this subject? Because there is a better way of managing talent, succession, and compensation. In this panel discussion, you will learn how Korn Ferry and UT System designed a job architecture to improve consistency in job leveling and titling and create clarity across the organization around job expectations and the criteria that drive high performance. In this interaction session, you will learn how KF and UT System built this essential foundation for HR programs and how the organization plans on using it to improve how it attracts, develops and rewards its talent. Learn also how UT System plans on addressing issues such as hot jobs, career pathing and change management.
